Introduction to Sophie Calle's "Take Care of Yourself"

Sophie Calle's "Take Care of Yourself" (originally titled Prenez soin de vous) is a multidisciplinary art project that was commissioned by the French Ministry of Culture in 2007. The project was initiated as a response to a personal and emotional experience: Calle received a breakup email from her lover, which she openly shared with the public. Instead of retreating into privacy, she transformed her heartbreak into an artistic exploration that resonated with audiences globally. The core concept of the project involves Calle asking over 100 women—ranging from colleagues and friends to strangers and professionals—to interpret her breakup email creatively. Each participant was instructed to analyze, respond, or reinterpret the email in their own way, resulting in a diverse collection of artworks, essays, photographs, and performances. This approach transforms a personal vulnerability into a collective artistic dialogue about love, pain, and healing.

Origins and Conceptual Framework

The Personal as Artistic

Sophie Calle is known for her conceptual art that blurs the line between personal life and artistic practice. "Take Care of Yourself" exemplifies this approach by taking a deeply personal moment—a breakup—and expanding it into a collective project. The Breakup Email as a Catalyst

This message became the starting point for a broader conversation about relationships, communication, and emotional well-being. The project captures the universal experience of heartbreak and the diverse ways people cope with emotional upheaval.
