Core Principles of Marketing Management According to Dawn Iacobucci The Strategic Foundation: Market Orientation and

Customer-Centricity At the heart of Iacobucci's framework lies the concept of market orientation. This entails a business-wide commitment to understanding and satisfying customer needs better than competitors. She advocates for a customer-centric approach that involves:

- Competitor Analysis: Monitoring competitors' strategies and market positioning.
- Interfunctional Coordination: Ensuring that all departments work cohesively towards delivering superior value.

By embedding these principles, organizations can develop strategies that resonate with their target markets, fostering loyalty and long-term profitability.

The Marketing Mix Revisited: 4Ps to 7Ps While the traditional marketing mix of Product, Price, Place, and Promotion remains foundational, Iacobucci expands this framework to include three additional Ps—People, Processes, and Physical Evidence—reflecting the shift towards service-dominant logic and experience-based marketing.

- Product: Innovation and differentiation to meet evolving customer needs.

She advocates for:

- Data-Driven Segmentation: Utilizing analytics to identify meaningful segments.
